We seek to discover the answers to many of our childhood wonderings. Some have been answered . . . others are yet to be answered . . .

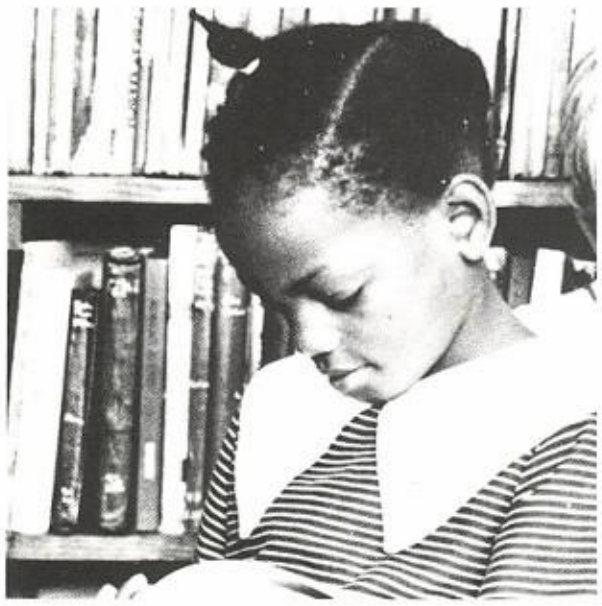
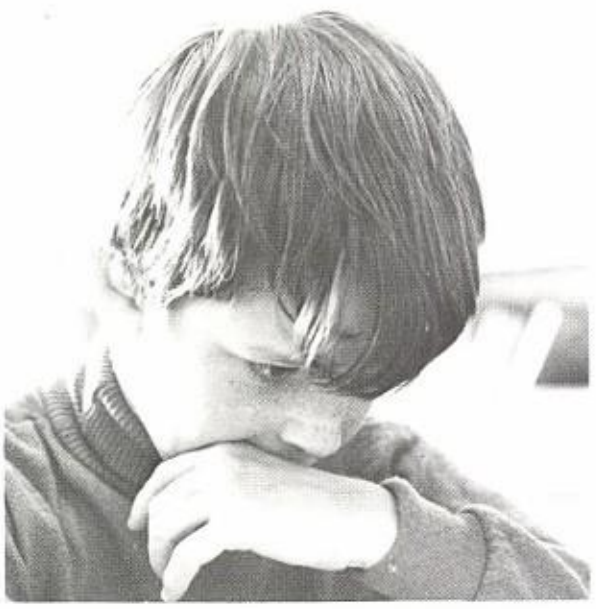
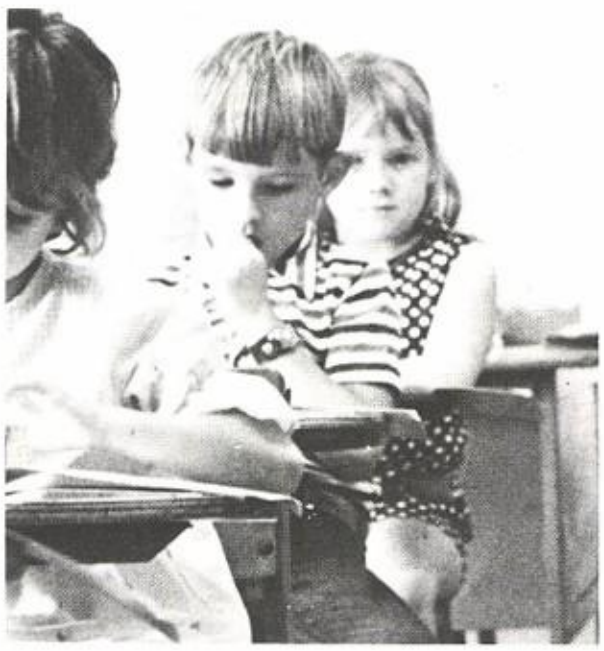
As the seasons change from spring to fall, we adhere to the earth's calling. We hear her voice in the wind rustling through the trees, in the rippling water of a fresh mountain stream and in the chirping of crickets on a crisp autumn night . . .





Bruce Proctor

We must try to understand the earth's need for us as individuals



"We stand now, where no man has stood before, at the brink of destruction by our own hands."

But Like the fowl flying free in the open air, or the fresh, clear water rushing or tripping over stones, we must stand with heads held high, proud to be free part of this earth . . .

Hornets Wind Up Season With 4-6 Mark

Coach Harold Haygood began the season with a bright record but injuries hampered Hazen from making the district playoffs, as the Hornets finished the season with a 4-6 record. In district competition the Hornets finished 2-1.

The four Hornet victories were confined to the first four games they played. In the first three games the Hornets breezed to victory as they played DeValls Bluff, Arkansas School for the Deaf, and Parkin. In each game the Hornets were first on the scoreboard. In the fourth game the Hornets played Magnet Cove and in a very close battle brought home their final victory for the year.

The Hornets next game proved to be a heart breaker, as they played their last conference game against the Wildcats of Harding Academy, with a score of 33-14. From then on the Hornets proved optimistic but were unable to beat their opponents, as they played Clarendon, Carlisle, Lonoke, McCrory and England.

Senior Basketball Squad Faces Tough Competition

Facing stern competition from many other teams the Hornets fell short of the district championship. The team completed the season with a 5-13 record.

Prior to district competition the Hornets participated in the Oak Grove Invitational Tournament. Hazen was forced out of play by Oak Grove with a score of 65-50.

The team seemed to "get it all together" for the most important time of the season—district! Coach Louks and the Hornets kept the Tigers fighting throughout the game. The players showed drive and momentum but St. Charles won 48-41.

Junior Hornets Establish 6-2 Record

Averaging over 20 points per game, Coach Tommy Louks' junior team stormed to an impressive 6-2 record. An 0-8 score with Augusta in the final game of the season was almost the only blemish in a near perfect campaign . Earlier in the year, the Hornets were defeated by DeValls Bluff, 14-16.

In the first game of the year the Hornets smashed England 27-0. Defensively they played an almost errorless game as the offense supplied enough firepower to coast to victory.

The Junior team gathered momentum in the second game as they unmercifully humiliated Holly Grove, 28-8.

It looked like a perfect season, but only two teams showed up to prevent it.

Junior Basketballers Enjoy Season

Despite a loss in the opening game of the season to DeValls Bluff, the Junior Hornets A Team enjoyed a fine season. Though that loss to DeValls Bluff looked bad, it did not spoil a shot for an almost perfect season. The Hornets established a 9-7 record.

An explosive scoring attack and an alert defense were the qualities that made up this year's talent-laden team. In the sixteen games, the Juniors averaged 35 points per game.

Coach Escola is given credit for seeing that Hornet players receive the experience they need before they move on to take over higher spots.

By way of acknowledgement . . .

A short time ago a yearbook was considered merely a collection of snapshots similar to those found in photo albums. Today it can no longer be considered as such. With the idealism and enthusiastic qualities of today's students, the yearbook has become a form of art captured by these traits. It is a book compiled of the achievements throughout the year and serves as a permanent record for the students, faculty and community.

Thanks should be given to . . .

Riceland Foods for the color pictures donated for the cover in the opening section.

Bruce Proctor for the excellent color photography in the opening section and extra time spent in getting these pictures.

Ken Austin and Hazel Presson for technical aid at the summer planning session in Austin.

Arkansas Gazette for pictures which were otherwise "unobtainable" of political leaders and Viet Nam scenes.

Ronnie Wensel for football squad pictures.

Cecil Waddle for reducing the characters for the months of the year and for the development of last minute film.

Conclusion

The awareness of our surrounding environment has become apparent to most within the last few years. Children, as well as students and adults, are being faced with the seriousness of world pollution. Living in this area of delta land with many wide open spaces, fresh air and non-polluted water has made many of us unaware of what life in a heavily polluted city can be like. However, steps have been taken even in this area to help prevent this problem from occurring. Perhaps that is why the symbol ⊜, standing for ecology, represents the need for a cleaner America which the ecological groups and organizations stress in their daily routine.

The four-color picture on the cover symbolizes our community as an area free of pollution. Because the 1971-72 students of Hazen High School are the future leaders in the fight against environmental pollution, the '72 version of the HORNET was published.
